

He didn't show up today.

First time all semester.

The room felt quieter – not because he wasn't speaking.
Because people weren't performing for him.

No one smiled unnecessarily.

No one overexplained.

The room breathed.

I watched the empty seat for an hour.

It was the most honest discussion we'd had all year.

– 0